Charleston County Medical Society Elects Fitts as President

Charleston            The Charleston County Medical Society has elected Dr. Robert “Casey” Fitts as its President.

Born and raised west of the Ashley, Dr. Fitts is a surgeon with Surgical Associates of Charleston. A Harvard University graduate, he completed medical school at Medical University of South Carolina and his General Surgery Residency at the University of Mississippi Medical Center, Jackson, MS.

An active member of multiple medical groups and community initiatives both locally and nationally, Dr. Fitts is the founder of Tri-County Project Care, a 501c3 non-profit community organization with a mission to provide access to health services for employed residents of greater Charleston in need.

Founded in 1951, The Charleston County Medical Society’s mission is to serve the needs of the entire medical community, patients who depend upon care rendered by member physicians, and organizations, hospital systems, and allied health resources, which strengthen the physician/patient relationship.
